Cajon Valley Union School District recognized as a Common Sense Certified District:
Digital Citizenship

El Cajon, CA – Common Sense, the national nonprofit organization dedicated to helping kids and families thrive in a world of digital media and technology, has recognized Cajon Valley Union School District as a Common Sense Certified District: Digital Citizenship.

Cajon Valley Union School District has demonstrated its commitment to taking a whole-community approach to preparing its students to use the immense power of digital media to explore, create, connect, and learn, while limiting the perils that exist in the online realm, such as plagiarism, loss of privacy, and cyberbullying.

"We applaud the faculty and staff of Cajon Valley Union School District for embracing digital citizenship as an important part of their students' education," said Jessica Lindl, Head of Common Sense Education. "Cajon Valley Union School District deserves high praise for giving its students the foundational skills they need to compete and succeed in the 21st-century workplace and participate ethically in society at large."

Cajon Valley Union School District has been using Common Sense Education's innovative and research-based digital citizenship resources. The resources teach students, educators, and parents tangible skills related to Internet safety, protecting online reputations and personal privacy, managing online relationships, and respecting creative copyright. The free resources are currently used in more than 90,000 classrooms nationwide. Cajon Valley Union School District joins 40 Common Sense Certified districts across the nation.

"We're honored to be recognized as a Common Sense Digital Citizenship Certified School," said Superintendent David Miyashiro "By preparing our students to use technology safely and responsibly, we are providing them unlimited opportunities to maximize and personalize their learning."
